On June 1, 2024, Anne Fraisse was named Deputy CEO of Icade Promotion in charge of the Urban Development Department, specifically tasked with developing low-carbon cities.

Anne Fraisse has spent her career working in local government and urban development agencies in the Toulouse metropolitan area. She has also been involved in promoting the inclusion of environmental factors in urban development projects in France.

In 2021, she joined the Icade Group as CEO of Urbain des Bois, the Group's new subsidiary dedicated exclusively to low-carbon property and urban development.
